The vb. is recorded in 'South English Legendary' (xiii) as poſſe breathe (r.w. astoffe stifle) and in PPI. and Ch. as poſſe, puſſe. Of echoic origin, imit. of the sound of the breath.

puffin pʌˈfɪn sea-bird of the genus Fratercula. xiv. Late ME. poſſo(u)n, pophyn (AL. poſſo), of unkn. origin, perh. Cornish (the earliest reference concerns Scilly in the duchy of Cornwall); prob. assim. later to PUFF on account of the bird's plump or puffed-out appearance.

pug<sup>1</sup> pʌg †term of endearment; †courtesan, harlot; bargeman xvi; †imp; monkey xvii; dwarf breed of dog xviii; genus of moths xix. poss. of L.Du. origin; cf. WFlem. Pugge, substituted for a Christian name, as Pugge Willems (De Bo).

pug<sup>2</sup> pʌg (dial.) pull, tug xvi; in techn. uses expressing stamping or thrusting action xix. perh. symbolic formation with structure resembling that of lug, plug, slug, tug. Cf. WFlem. pug(ge) hard prod, kick, knock.

puggaree pʌˈgəri Indian native's light turban xvii; scarf or veil wound round a sun helmet xix. - Hind. pagrī.

pugilist pjūˈdʒɪlɪst boxer. xviii. f. L. pugil (for the ending cf. vigil), f. base of pugnus fist, pugnāre fight, perh. identical with that of pungere (pt. puſugī) prick (see POINT); cf., however, Gr. pūx with the fist, pugnākhos pugilist, pugnē fist, boxing; see -IST. pugna-cious pʌgneɪˈʃəs disposed to fight. xvii. f. L. pugnāci-, -āx, f. pugnāre, f. pugnus. pugnacity -næˈsɪti. xvii. - L.

puisne pjūˈni younger, junior (now only of judges). xvi. Legal sp. of PUNY.

puissant pjū'sant, pwi'sant, pjui'sant (arch.) powerful. xv. - (O)F. puissant = Pr. poissan :- Gallo-Rom. **possiantem* (f. L. posse), for L. potentem, -ēns POTENT. So puissance. xv. - (O)F. puissance = Pr. poissansa, -ensa.

puke pjūk vomit. xvi (Sh.; somewhat earlier in pewkishnesse, Mulcaster 1581). prob. of imit. origin; cf., for similar expressive elements, LG. (whence G.) spucken, Flem. spukken spew, spit, and SPEW.

pukka, pucka pɑ:kə of full weight; genuine; reliable, permanent. xvii. - Hindi pakkā ripe, mature, cooked, made of brick, firm, strong.

pule pjūl whine, cry plaintively. xvi. prob. of imit. origin; cf. F. piauler, dial. piouler chirp, whine, and MEWL.

pull pul (dial.) pluck; drag or tug at. Late OE. pullian, also āpullian, having ostensible similarity in form and sense to LG. pūlen shell, strip, pluck, MDu. polen 'decorticare' (Kilian), and (M)LG. pūle, Du. peul husk, shell, the meaning 'pluck, snatch' being prob. the original (cf. FLUCK); the sense 'take a draught of' (xv) is in Du., LG. pullen. Hence sb. xiv.

pullet pu'lit young hen of the domestic fowl. xiv (PPL). - (O)F. poulet, fem. -ette, dim. of poule hen = Pr. pola, Sp., It. polla :- Rom. **pulla*, fem. of L. pullus young animal, chicken (see FOAL); cf. POULTRY.

pulley pu'li grooved wheel for cord to pass over, used for changing direction of power. xiv. ME. poley - OF. polie (mod. poulie) = Pr. poleja (whence Sp. polea, Pg. polé), It. puleggia :- Rom. **polidia* (n. pl. used as fem. sg.), pl. of **polidium*, prob. - medGr. **polidion*, dim. of pólos POLE<sup>2</sup>, also windlass, capstan.

pullicate pu'likət coloured handkerchief orig. made at Pulicat on the Madras coast, India. xviii.

pullman pu'lman railway carriage constructed as a saloon. xix. f. name of the designer, George M. Pullman (1831-97), of Chicago, U.S.A.

pullulate pɑ:ljuleit sprout xvii; swarm xix. f. pp. stem of L. pullulāre spring forth, grow (whence F. pulluler swarm), f. pullulus, dim. of pullus young of an animal, chick (cf. FOAL); see -ATE<sup>3</sup>.

pulmonary pɑ:lmənəri pert. to the lungs. xviii. - L. pulmōnārius, f. pulmōn-, pulmō lung, rel. obscurely to synon. Gr. pleimōn, OSl. pljušta pl., OPruss. plauti; see -ARY and cf. F. pulmonaire.

pulp pɑlp fleshy part of fruit, etc. xvi; soft formless mass xvii. - L. pulpa (whence also F. poulpe, It. polpa, etc.).

pulse<sup>1</sup> pɑls rhythmical dilatation of the arteries. xiv. ME. pous, pouce, later puls - OF. pous, later (latinized) pouls = Pr. pous, Cat. pols temple, It. polso :- L. pulsu- beating (spec. vēnārum of the veins) :- **pelsos* f. base of pellere drive, beat. So pulse vb. †drive; pulsate. xvi. - L. pulsāre, frequent. of pellere; pu'lsate<sup>2</sup>. xviii; pu'lsa'tion. xvi. - L. Cf. PUSH, REPULSE.

pulverize pɑ:l'vəraiz reduce to powder. xvi. - late L. pulverizāre (Vegetius), f. pulver-, pulvis dust, rel. to POLLEN; cf. F. pulvériser (Paré); see POWDER, -IZE. So pulverulent pɑlve:r'ulənt powdery, crumbling. xvii. - L.

puma pjū'mə feline quadruped Felis concolor. xviii. - Sp. puma - Quechua puma.

pumice pɑ:mis porous kind of lava. xv. Late ME. pomys - OF. pomis - L. dial. pōmice-m, var. of pūmicem, nom. pūmex; cf. POUNCE<sup>2</sup>. The present sp. shows reversion to the orig. L. form, but the pronunc. has not been infl. OE. pūmic(stān), corr. to MLG. pomes, MDu. pums(e), OHG. pūmiz, bumiz (G. bims|stein), was not repr. in ME.; the forms pumysch, pomege (xv), pumish (xvi-xvii) were prob. due to assim. of -is to -ISH<sup>1</sup>, -AGE. (Du. pūmsteen is based on L. pūmex.)

pummel pɑ:ml beat repeatedly, esp. with the fist. xvi. Earlier pomell, poumille, pumble, f. POMMEL, the orig. sense being 'strike with the pommel of a sword (instead of the edge or point)'.

pump<sup>1</sup> pɑmp mechanical device for raising water, etc. xv. In earliest use naut.; corr. to late MDu. pompe wood or metal pipe, stone conduit, Du. pomp ship's pump, LG. pump(e), whence early modG. pumpe (xvi), Sw. pump, Da. pompe, F. pompe (xvi); the evidence is inadequate to decide whether the word was prior in Eng. or LG. The co-existence of synon. Eng. †plump (xv-xvii), G. dial. plumpe, plumpfe, and Cat., Sp., Pg. bomba, suggests a series of more or less independent imit. formations. Hence pump vb. xvi; cf. Du. pompen, etc.

pump<sup>2</sup> pɑmp light close-fitting shoe. xvi. Of unkn. origin; perh. from transf. joc. use of †pump shoe (xvi) (part of) the piston of a pump, so applied on account of its fitting close.

pumpernickel ɒˈmɜːnɪkəl German rye bread. XVIII. G., of unkn. origin (earlier lout, booby).

pumpkin ɒˈmɜːkɪn, (U.S. often ɒˈŋkɪn) kind of gourd, Cucurbita Pepo. XVII. alt. (by assim. of the ending to -KIN) of pumpion, earlier pompon - F. †pompon (whence also (M)Du. pompoen), nasalized form of †pōpon, var. of **pēpon* - L. pēpō(n) - Gr. pēpōn large melon, sb. use of pēpōn ripe (see COOK), for sikuos pēpōn kind of melon not eaten till quite ripe (the sikuos being eaten unripe).

pun pʌn play on like-sounding words. XVII (Dryden, 1662, Eachard, 1670). prob. one of a group of clipped words which became fashionable in Restoration times (cf. CIT, MOB, NOB, PUNCH<sup>2</sup>); app. short for †pundigrion, which occurs with †punnet and quibble in 1676 (Roger L'Estrange), 'of which' it is said 'fifteen will not make up one single jest'; it has been conjectured that pundigrion may be a fanciful alteration of It. puntiglio fine point, PUNCTILIO, †cavil, †quibble. (An earlier term was clinch.) Hence vb. XVII (Eachard, 1670). punˌnɪstər. XVII (Congreve); contemp. with punner.

punch<sup>2</sup> pʌnʃ (capital P) hump-backed short grotesque male figure; principal character in the puppet-show of Punch and Judy xviii; short fat man (also adj.) xvii; one of a breed of thick-set horses (e.g. Suffolk p.) xix. Shortening of PUNCHINELLO.

punch<sup>3</sup> pʌnʃ beverage from wine, spirits, mixed with hot water or milk, etc. xvii (1632). Stated by Fryer ('Account of East India', 1698) to be the Marathi and Hindi pānch (Skr. pañchan FIVE), so named from the five ingredients of the drink; but the mod. pronunc. descends from earlier punʃ, which is not a normal repr. of the ā or a of the Indian word pānch, panch- (in comps.). The problem is complicated by the early occurrence of forms which appear to repr. bowl o' punch, but which may, however, point to an original of which punch is a shortening. ¶ Taken from Eng. into many Eur. langs., as F. punch, Du. punch, G., Sw., Da. punsch, Sp., Pg. ponche, Russ. punsh.

punch<sup>4</sup> pʌnʃ (dial.) poke, prod, †stab xiv; pierce with holes; deliver a sharp blow at esp. with the fist xvi. var. of †pounce emboss, pink the edge of (xv), prob. of Rom. origin (cf. next).

puncheon<sup>2</sup> ɒˈnʃən (mostly Sc.) large cask (esp. one of specific capacity). xv. Identical in form with prec., but if it is the same word the sense-development is obscure.

Punchinello ɒnʃɪˈneɪləu principal character in an Italian puppet show (see PUNCH<sup>2</sup>). xvii (Pepys). Current from the outset in two main forms Policinello and Punchinello (with vars. in Pon-, -elle). - Neapolitan dial. Polecenella (1632, in Silvio Fiorillo's 'La Lucilia costante'), in literary It. Pulcinella, perh. based on dim. of pollecena young of the turkey-cock (to the hooked beak of which the nose of the mask of Punch bears some resemblance), f. polcino chicken :- Rom. **pullicinu-s*, f. L. pullus (see PULLET). ¶ The forms in Pun- appear to have resulted from assim. of l to the following n.

punctilio ɒŋkʃɪˈliəu †fine or minute point; minute detail of conduct. xvi (puntiglio). - It. puntiglio, Sp. puntillo, dim. of punto POINT; with later assim. to L. punctum; cf. F. pointille - It. So puncti-lious. xvii. - F. pointilleux. punctual ɒˈŋktʃuəl, -tʃuəl pert. to a point or dot xiv; †bearing on the point, precise; †minutely observant of rule, etc.; exactly observant of appointed time xvii. - medL. punctuālis, f. L. punctum POINT; cf. F. ponctuel and see -AL<sup>1</sup>. So punctua-LITY. xvii; cf. medL. punctuālitās, F. ponctualité. punctuate ɒˈŋktʃueɪt, -tʃueɪt point out (rare) xvii; put the stops in (a sentence) xix (formerly point xiv). f. pp. stem of medL. punctuāre prick, point, etc. (cf. F. ponctuer, It. puntuare), f. punctum POINT; see -ATE<sup>2</sup>. So punctua-TION †pointing of the psalms xvi; insertion of vowel points in Hebrew, etc., of stops in a sentence xvii. - medL. punctuātio; cf. F. ponctuation. puncture ɒˈŋktʃəɪ prick, perforation. xiv (rare before xvi). - L. punctūra, f. punct-, pp. stem of pungere prick; see PUNGENT, -URE. Hence vb. xvii.

pundit ɒˈndɪt learned Hindu. xvii. - Hindi paṇḍit :- Skr. paṇḍita learned, skilled, sb. learned man, scholar, rel. to paṇḍā understanding, learning; cf. F. paṇḍit, †-ite, Pg. paṇḍito.

pungent ɒˈndʒənt pricking, sharp, keen. xvi. - L. pungent-, -ēns, prp. of pungere prick, perh. f. base **pug-* of pugnus fist, pugna fight, pugil boxer (cf. PUGILIST, PUGNACIOUS); see -ENT. Superseded †poignant, POIGNANT in several senses.

Punic ɒjūˈnɪk Carthaginian. xv. - L. Pūnicus, earlier Pænicus, f. Pænus - Gr. Phōnix PHENICIAN; see -IC; cf. F. punique.

punish ɒˈnɪʃ cause to suffer for an offence. xiv. ME. punisse, -ische - (O)F. puniss-, extended stem (see -ISH<sup>2</sup>) of punir :- L. punire, earlier pænire, f. pæna PAIN. Hence pu-nishment. xv. - OF. punissement. So punitive ɒjūˈnɪtɪv. xvii. - F. punitif, -ive or medL. pūnitīvus, f. punit-, pp. stem of punire.

punkah pʌŋkə portable fan XVII; fan of cloth stretched on a frame XIX. - Hindi pankhā fan :- Skr. pakshaka fan, f. paksha wing.

punt<sup>1</sup> pʌnt flat-bottomed shallow boat. XV. In earliest use (E. Anglian) pontebot, punte boot (BOAT) - MLG. punte, punto (LG. punte, punto) ferry-boat, mud-boat, corr. to late OE. punt (which did not survive), MDu. ponte (Du. pont) ferry-boat, pontoon - L. pontō Gaulish transport vessel (Caesar), PONTOON. Hence vb. XIX.

re<sup>1</sup> rei (mus.) second note of a hexachord or of the octave in solmization. XIV. See GAMUT.

re- (unstressed, mostly) rī, (emph. or with stress, esp. with the sense 'again') rī, (with main or secondary stress, as in recipe, recognize, record, redolent, reference, register, renovate, resolute, revolution) re; repr. L. re-, (before a vowel in the classical period) red- (e.g. redimere REDEEM, redolēre, redundāre REDOUND) surviving in the doubled cons. of reddere RENDER, religiō RELIGION, etc.; prefix restricted to the Italic group, having the general sense of 'back' or 'again', occurring in many Eng. words of L. or Rom. origin (cf. F. re-, ré-, Sp., Pg. re-, It. ri-), or of Eng. formations freely modelled on these. From the L. was derived an adj. **recos*, repr. in reciprocus RECIPROCAL, and an adv. retrō backwards, RETRO-. In combination with a- the prefix is disguised in rally, ram-part, and ransom, and in the non-naturalized rallentando, rapport, rapprochement. The meanings of the L. prefix, which are all repr. in Eng., are: (1) backwards from a point reached or to the starting-point, e.g. recēdere RECEDE, redire return, respicere look back (see RESPECT), revocāre REVOKE; passing sometimes into 'away', e.g. removēre REMOVE; (2) back to an earlier state or over to another condition, e.g. reficere re-do, re-make (see REFECTION), renovāre RENOVATE, repōnere REPOSE, restituere (see RESTITUTION), resumere RESUME; (3) back in a place, from going forward, e.g. refrēnāre REFRAIN<sup>1</sup>, remanēre REMAIN. retinēre RETAIN, residēre RESIDE, restāre REST<sup>2</sup>; (4) again, in return, in repetition or reiteration (the most frequent use in new formations, and sometimes doubled or trebled to express further repetition); (5) in a contrary direction, so that what has been done is annulled or destroyed (= UN-<sup>2</sup>), e.g. recingere ungird, recludere unclose (for later use see RECLOSE), renuntiāre RENOUNCE, reprobare REPROVE, resignāre RESIGN, revēlāre unveil, REVEAL; (6) in opposition or conflict, e.g. rebellis REBEL, recrimināri RECRIMINATE, recusāre refuse (cf. RECUSANT); (7) in response to a stimulus, with intensive force, e.g. redolēre (see REDOLENT), requirere REQUIRE, resolvere RESOLVE, Rom. **resentire* RESENT, **resimulāre* RESEMBLE, F. redouter (cf. REDOUTABLE).

Words containing the prefix occur as early as c.1200, are prominent in AncrR. and RGlouc., and become more frequent in Ch., PPI., Trév., Wyclif; it became an Eng. prefix in XVI, formations on native words being modelled to some extent on foreign comps., as recall on L. revocāre, recast after F. refondre, renew on L. renovāre. There are double forms with different meanings (with or without hyphen) arising from the coining of new formations from els. identical with those of already existing ones, e.g. re-cover (cover again) beside RECOVER. The hyphen in general is used when a re-compound is coupled with the simplex, as bind and re-bind, and when the simplex begins with e, as re-enter, which in U.S.A. usage is often re-ënter.

reach<sup>1</sup> ritʃ stretch out, extend (in various lit. and fig. uses). OE. ræcan (pt. ræhte, rāhte), also ǣvæcan = OFris. rēka, rēts(i)a, MLG., (M)Du. reiken, OHG. (G.) reichen :- WGerm. **raikjan*, with which Lith. raižytis stretch has been connected. The typical ME. forms of pt. and pp. were rau(g)hte, rau(g)ht rōt; the new reched appeared c.1400, later reached XVI. comp. reach-me-down ready-made or secondhand (garment); pl. trousers. XIX (Thackeray). f. customer's request, reach me down (a garment from a peg or shelf). Hence reach sb. continuous stretch, as of a waterway XIII reach<sup>2</sup> rīfʃ †spit, hawk OE.; make efforts to vomit (see RETCH). xvii. OE. hræcan = ON. hrækja spit, f. Germ. **hrak-*, repr. also by OE. hrāca, ON. hræki spittle; of imit. origin (cf. OE. hroh phlegm, hrohian hawk, clear the throat, dial. rough).

react riæ·kt act in turn or in response to a stimulus xvii; move or tend in a reverse direction xix. f. RE- 5, 7+ACT vb., after F. réagir or late L. reagere. So REACTION xvii (Florio, rendering It. reazione), prob. after F. réaction (xvi); in political sense xviii), whence REACTIONARY xix; partly after F. réactionnaire (xviii in political sense). REAGENT riæ·dʒənt (chem.) substance employed to detect the presence of another by the reaction produced xviii; after reaction.

read<sup>2</sup> rīd pt., pp. read red †think, suppose, guess; discern the meaning of (chiefly in read a riddle, a dream); inspect and interpret aloud or silently (signs representing speech); also intr. OE. rēdan = OFris. rēda, OS. rādan (Du. raden advise, guess), OHG. rātan (G. raten guess, read (a riddle), advise), ON. rāða advise, plan, contrive, rule, explain, read, Goth. -rēdan :- CGerm. **rēðan*, prob. rel. to OIr. imrādīm I deliberate, consider, OSl. raditi take thought, attend to, Skr. rādhi- accomplish. Also pp. 'informed by reading', as in well-read xvi.

The orig. senses of the Germ. vb. are those of taking or giving counsel, taking charge, controlling (the sense 'advise' has been preserved in Eng. with the form REDE); the sense of considering or explaining something secret or mysterious is common to several langs., but that of interpreting written symbols is peculiar to OE., and ON. (perh. through OE. infl.).

The orig. Germ. conjugation is repr. by OE. (rare) pt. rēd, rēord, and pp. (gē)rēden, OS. ried, rēd, and **girādan* (Du. riet, ried, and geraden), OHG. riat and girāten (G. riet and geraten), ON. rād and rādinn, Goth. -rairōþ and **-rēdāns* :- CGerm. **rerōð* and **garāðdanaz*; but the usual OE. forms were rædde and (gē)ræd(e)d, on the analogy of lēddan LEAD<sup>2</sup>, ME. radde, redde and (i)rad, (i)red; since xvii the Eng. inf., pt., and pp. have been identical in spelling. Hence read-ER<sup>1</sup>. OE. rædere; reading-book xviii. read-ING<sup>1</sup> OE. ræding.

ready re·di in a state of preparation for something, prompt, quick. xii-xiii (Ormulum, La3., S.Eng. Leg., Cursor M.). Early ME. rædi(3), readi, redi, also zeredi, ireadi, extended forms (with -y<sup>1</sup>) of OE. ræde, usu. gēræde (ME. iredē) = OFris. rēde, MLG. rēde, gērēde (Du. gereed), OHG. reiti, MHG.

gereite, parallel to OE. gerād straight, wise, prudent, -conditioned, MLG. gerēd, MHG. gereit ready, ON. reiðr, greiðr ready (whence ME. †graith, dial. gradely), Goth. garaip̃s arranged; f. Germ. **raið-* prepare, arrange; connexion with RIDE has been conjectured, the basic meaning 'prepared for a journey' being supposed.

real<sup>1</sup> rī·əl (orig. leg.) pert. to things (as dist. from persons) xv; actually existing or present; that is truly what its name implies xvi. orig. -AN. real = (O)F. réel; later - its source, late L. reālis, f. rēs thing, acc. rem, corr. to Vedic rām riches, śatā/rā 'having a hundred riches'; see -AL<sup>1</sup>. So realism xix (Coleridge); orig. after G. Realismus or F. réalisme. realist (philos.) xvii; after F. réaliste (xvi). In the sense 'adherent of philosophical realism' earlier †real (xvi), after late L. reālis. reality riæ·liti. xvi. - (O)F. or medL. re·al·ize, realiza·TION. xvii (Cotgr.). - F. réaliser, -isation (xvi). real·y<sup>2</sup> rī·əli. xv; after late L. reāliter.

F. réalgar, formerly †reagal, †triagal, †realgal, Sp. rejalgar. ¶ In some vars. Arab. j is repr. by s; cf. OSp. risalgado, Pg. resalgar, rosalgar, It. risogello, risigallo, medL. risigallum, resegale, Eng. †resalgar (xiv, Ch.), †rosalger (xv), †rosaker (xvi).

realm relm (now rhet. and techn.) kingdom. xiii (S.Eng. Leg.). ME. reume, later ream, reume, realme (xiv) - OF. reaume, realme (mod. royaume), corr. to Pr. regeme, re(y)alme, OSP. rea(l)me, It. ream - L. regimin-, REGIMEN; blending with OF. reiel ROYAL, etc. produced forms with -l-, which finally prevailed in Eng., realm being established c.1600, rialm and royalme being earlier prevalent.

ream<sup>1</sup> rīm 20 quires of paper. xiv. - OF. raime, reyme, remme (mod. rame), also riesme, corr. to Cat. raïma, Sp., Pg. resma - Arab. risma bundle of clothes, etc. (whence also It. risma, the source of Du. riem, G. ries, whence Sw., Da. ris), f. rasama remain fixed, collect into a bundle. ¶ Rag paper was introduced into Spain by the Arabs.

reap rīp cut (grain) for harvest. The present form descends from ME. repen, reopon, repr. OE. (i) reopan, **riopan* (late Nhb. rioppa, rippa, also hr-, with characteristic cons.-doubling), var. of ripan (pt. ripde, **ripte*), and (ii) **repan* (pt. pl. ræpon); no certain cogns. are known. (OE. pt. pl. riþon implies an inf. **riþan*, pres. riþe, riþþ, repr. by ME. and dial. riþe, pt. rope. ¶ Various types, some showing admixture, are found in ME., early modE., and mod. dial., viz. inf. rippe, riþ, †riþe, pt. rep, rept, rope, pp. †tropen, †repen, †rept, ripped, rope.)

rear<sup>1</sup> ri:ɹ set up, lift up, raise (lit. and fig.) OE.; bring up, breed xv; intr. rise on the hind feet xiv. OE. ræran = ON. reisa, Goth. ur|raisjan awaken :- CGerm. **raizjan*, causative of **reisan* RISE. ¶ Superseded in many senses by the Scand. RAISE.

rear<sup>2</sup> ri:ɹ hindmost part. xvi. In earliest use military and naval; prob. extracted from phr. in the rearward (xv) or simply a shortening of rearward or rearguard, as the somewhat later VAN<sup>1</sup> is of vanguard. ¶ Aphetic deriv. from ARREAR is not supported by the chronology.

rearguard ri:ɹgɑrd †rear portion of an armed force xv (Caxton); portion detached from the main force to protect the rear xvii. - OF. reregarde (cf. F. arrière-garde), f. rer, riere :- L. retro back (see RETRO-) + garde GUARD. The AN. var. revecarde is repr. by rea·rward. xiv; see WARD<sup>1</sup>.

rearmouse ri:ɹmaʊs (dial.) bat (Vespertilio). OE. hræremūs, the first el. of which is of unkn. origin, the second is MOUSE; poss. alt. of synon. hræðemūs.

reason ri:zn fact or circumstance serving as ground or motive for action; intellectual power, thinking faculty. xiii (AnchrR.). Many senses now obs. have been current, as well as phr., which often depend on foreign models. ME. res(ou)n, reson, reisun - OF. reisun, res(ou)n (mod. raison) = Pr. razó, Sp. razón, It. ragione :- Rom. **ratione*, L. ratio(n)- reckoning, account, judgement, understanding, reasoning, method, motive, cause (cf. releat rɪleɪnt †melt, dissolve xiv (Ch.); grow gentle or forgiving xvi. - medL. **relentāre* (cf. L. relentācere slacken), f. re- RE- 7 + L. lentāre bend, medL. soften (so Pg. relentar), f. lentus flexible, rel. to OE. līpe LITHE.

relevant re-lɪvənt pertinent to. xvi. In earliest use Sc. and prob. of legal origin; not in gen. Eng. use before 1800. - medL. relevant-, -āns, prp. of L. relevāre raise up, RELIEVE, in medL. take up, take possession of (a fief), pay a relief for, hold of a landlord. ¶ For the wide development of sense cf. F. relever be dependent, It. rilevare be of importance or use, rilevante important, considerable, Sp. relevar exculpate, relieve, exalt, Sp., Pg. relevante eminent, excellent, relevar be important, suitable, or necessary, exonerate, etc.; and RELIEF<sup>1</sup> A.

reliable rɪlaɪəbl̩ that can be relied upon. xvi (reliabil, Sc.). f. RELY + -ABLE. Frequent in gen. use only since c.1850, and at first most prominently in Amer. writings; often protested against as a faulty Amer. formation (for rely-on-able) but it has analogues in available, dependable, laughable. (See Fitzedward Hall 'On English adjectives in -able'.) Hence reliab-ILITY. xix (1816, Coleridge, who uses reliable also).

reliance rɪlaɪəns act of relying. xvii (Sh.). f. RELY + -ANCE, after affiance. So reli-ANT. xix, chiefly in self-reliant.

relic re-lɪk object remaining as a memorial of a departed saint xiii (souvenir, memento xvii Sh.); pl. remains xiv; surviving trace or memory xvi. ME. relike - (O)F. relique, orig. pl. - L. reliquiæ remains, fem. pl. of reliquus remaining, f. re- RE- + **liq*<sup>w</sup>-, base of linquere leave behind (see RELINQUISH). ¶ OE. had reliquias (from L. acc. pl.) and relicgang veneration of relics. The sp. relique was in use xv-xix.

relict re-lɪkt † (chiefly Sc.) relic; widow; pl. remains xvi. - L. relictus, n. sg. -um, n. pl. -a, pp. of relinquere leave behind, RELINQUISH. In the sense 'widow' (in earliest use Sc.) - OF. relicte, late L. relicta.

relief<sup>1</sup> rɪliːf A. payment made to an overlord on taking possession xiv (R. Mannyng). B. alleviation of distress etc. xiv; release from occupation or duty xvi. - AN. relef, (O)F. relief, f. relever (tonic stem reliev-) RELIEVE; for sense A cf. RELEVANT.

relief<sup>2</sup> rɪliːf elevation of (parts of) a design from a plane surface. xvii (Evelyn). - F. relief - It. rilevato rɪljeˈvo, †rilevo, f. rilevare raise; see next. Earlier †releve (B. Jonson), †relieve was immed. from the It. forms, which were also in Eng. use before relief, as also in alto rilievo, basso rilievo, mezzo rilievo high, low, medium relief.

relieve riliv assist in trouble or difficulty XIV; ease, mitigate XV; (Sc.) release XVI; (after RELIEF<sup>1</sup>) release from guard or watch XVII; (after RELIEF<sup>2</sup>) bring into relief XVIII. Late ME. releve - (O)F. relever = Pr., Sp. relevar, It. rilevare :- L. relevāre raise again, succour, alleviate, f. re- RE- 7 + levāre raise, f. levis LIGHT<sup>2</sup>.

religion rilidʒən state of life (as of monks) bound by vows and a rule XII; religious order or rule; system of faith in and worship of a divine power XIII; recognition of a divine being to whom worship is due XVI. - (O)F. religion = Pr., Sp. religion, It. religione - L. religiō(n)-, obligation (as of an oath), bond between man and the gods, scrupulousness, scruple(s), reverence for the gods; (in late L. from v) religious (monastic) life; by Cicero ('De natura deorum' II xxviii § 72) derived from relegere gather together, peruse, but elsewhere connected by him with the idea of obligation (e.g. religione obstringere) and more prob. to be derived (as by Servius, Lactantius, and Augustine) from religāre bind fast, f. re- RE- 7 + ligāre bind; see LIGATURE, -ION. So religious rilidʒəs bound by monastic vows; imbued with religion XIII; pert. to religion XVI; sb. as pl. monks, etc. XIII, as sg. XIV. - OF. religios (mod. -ieux) - L. religiōsus. religiosity. XIV (Wycl. Bible). - L.; in more recent use perh. after F.

relish relif taste, flavour XVI; appetizing taste; liking, zest XVII. Later form of ME. reles taste (XIV), corr. formally to OF. reles, var. of relais remainder, f. relaisser leave behind, RELEASE, but the senses of the Eng. word are not recorded in OF. (taste is regarded as what remains behind after eating). Hence relish vb. give a relish to; have a taste for XVI; have a certain taste XVII.

reluctant rilaktənt †struggling, resisting XVII (Milton); unwilling XVIII. - L. reluctant-, -āns, prp. of reluctāri struggle against, f. re- RE- 7 + luctāri struggle; see -ANT. So earlier reluctance (1641), -ANCY (1621); other derivs. of the L. vb. are reluct vb. (1526), reluctate vb. (1643), reluctation (1605).

relume riljəm relight, rekindle XVII (Sh.); illuminate again XVIII. f. RE- 4 + -lume of ILLUMB, partly after F. rallumer or late L. relumināre.

rely rilai †gather together, assemble, rally (trans. and intr.) XIV (R. Mannyng); †rally to, trust, adhere, or be devoted to XIV; depend trustfully on XVI. - OF. reliev :- L. religāre bind closely, f. re- RE- 7 + ligāre bind; see LIGATURE and cf. ALLY, RALLY. Hence RELIABLE, RELIANCE.

remain rimein be left over; continue to exist XIV; stay in a place XV; continue to be XVI. f. remain-, remainere, tonic stem of OF. remanoir = It. rimanere, Rom. rāmīnēd :- L. remanēre, f. re- RE- 7 + manēre remain (see MANSION); or - OF. remaindre = Pr. remanre :- Rom. **remanere*, for L. remanēre. So remain sb. remainder, relic, remaining member or part (now chiefly pl.). xv. Earliest instances Sc.; partly - OF. remain, f. remaindre; partly immed. f. the vb. remainder rimeindəi (leg.) residual interest of an estate XV; what is left over XVI; (math.) XVI (Digges). - AN. remainder = OF. remaindre; sb. use of inf. (see -ER<sup>2</sup>). Cf. REMNANT.

remand rimānd send back XV, spec. (a prisoner) into custody XVI. - medL. remandāre (in late L. send back word, repeat a command), f. re- RE- 2 + mandāre command, send word (see MANDATE). Hence remand sb. XVIII.

remanet remonət remainder XVI; (leg.) cause of which the hearing is postponed XVIII. L., 'there or it remains', 3rd sg. pres. ind. of remanēre REMAIN.

remark rimārk †distinguish, point out; take notice of; utter as an observation. XVII. - F. remarquer, superseding OF. remerquier, -merchter, prob. after It. rimarcare; see RE- 7, MARK vb. So rema·rk sb. †of (.) remark worthy of (.) notice (F. de (.) remarque); (an) observation, (a) comment. XVII. - F. remarque, f. remarquer; cf. It. rimarco. rema·rkable. XVII. - F. remarquable.

remedy re·midī cure for disease; redress, relief XIII; legal redress; small margin within which coins as minted are allowed to vary from the standard xv. - AN. remédie = (O)F. remède, Sp. remedio, It. remedio - L. remediūm medicine, means of relief, in medL. concession, f. re- RE- 2, 7 + med-, stem of mederi heal (see MEDICINE). So remedial rimi·diəl. XVII. - late L. remediālis. remedy vb. xv. - (O)F. remédier (whence also earlier †remede XIV) or late L. remediāre.

remember rime·mbəi retain in or recall to the memory, bear in mind (R. Mannyng); (arch., dial.) remind (Ch.). xiv. - OF. remembrer = Pr., Sp. remembrar :- late L. rememorāri call to mind, f. re- RE- 7 + memor mindful (see MEMORY). So reme·mbrance calling to mind, recollection. XIII. - OF. reme·mbrancer<sup>1</sup> official responsible for collection of dues, etc. xv. - AN. remem·braincer.

remind rimai·nd †remember, recollect; put in mind of. XVII. f. RE- †MIND vb., prob. after †rememorare (late L. rememorāri REMEMBER), which was current at the time that remind first appears. Hence remi·nder<sup>1</sup>. XVII (H. More; rare before XIX).

reminiscence remini'səns act or fact of remembering. XVI. - late L. reminiscentia (Tertullian), f. reminisci remember, f. re-re-4 + **men-* (see MIND, -ENCE); cf. (O)F. réminiscence. So remini-scent. XVIII. Hence by back-formation (usu. joc.) remini-sce vb. XIX.

remise rəmi'z coach-house; hired carriage (for voiture de remise 'carriage put under cover') XVII; (fencing) second thrust made when the first has missed; (cards) XIX. - F. remise, f. remis, pp. of remettre put back or up, REMIT.

remit rimi't A. forgive (sin); abstain from exacting (a penalty) XIV. B. give up, desist from XIV. C. refer for consideration, etc. XIV; put back, XVI; put off XVII; transmit XVII; D. intr. abate XVII. - L. remittere send back, slacken, relax, postpone, f. re-re-1, 2 + mittere put, send (see MISSION). Hence remi-ttance money sent away. XVIII. So remi-ssion forgiveness XIII; remitting (of debt, etc.) XIV; diminution of force XVII. - (O)F. - L.

remnant rəmnənt (small) part remaining over. XIV. contr. of earlier remanant (c.1300) - OF. remanant, sb. use of prp. of remanoir, -manoir REMAIN; see -ANT.

remonstrate rimo'nstreit, rə'mənstreit †demonstrate XVI; †point out (a fault, etc.) to; †raise an objection to; urge strong reasons against XVII. f. pp. stem of medL. remōnstrāre demonstrate, f. re-+mōnstrāre show; see RE-7, MONSTER, -ATE<sup>3</sup>. So remo-nstrance †appeal XV (Caxton); †demonstration XVI; formal statement of grievances XVII. - F. †remonstrance (mod. remonstrance) or medL. remo-nstrā-tion. xv (Caxton). - obs. F. or medL.

remora rə'mɔrə sucking-fish, Echeineis remora. XVI: - L. remora delay, hindrance, f. re-re-3+mora delay (cf. MORATORIUM); occurs in some texts of Pliny's 'Natural History' xxxii i, where others read mora, for the fish called in Gr. ἔχρητις 'hold-ship'.

remorse rimi'dɔ:s feeling of compunction for wrong done. XIV (in full r. of conscience Ch. repr. OF. remors de conscience, medL. remorsus conscientiae). - OF. remors (mod. remords) - medL. remorsus, f. remors-, pp. stem of L. remordere vex, torment, f. re-re-7+mordere bite (see MORDANT, MORSEL).

remote rimou't far apart or away. XV (rare before late XVI). - L. remōtus, pp. of removēre REMOVE.

rend rend pt., pp. rent tear apart (asunder). OE. rendan = OFris. renda, rel. to MLG. rende, and perh. further to Skr. rāndhra-fissure, slit, split.

render rə'ndəi A. †repeat, recite XIV; give in return (now as echo of 1 Thess. v 15, 1 Peter iii 9) XV; give back; represent, reproduce XVI; B. hand over, give up, surrender XIV; submit (an account, etc.) XV; give, pay XVI; C. bring into a specified state XV; D. melt XIV; give a first coating of plaster XVIII. - (O)F. rendre, corr. to Pr. rendre, Sp. rendir, It. rendere :- Rom. **rendere*, alt., after prendere (see PRISON), of L. reddere give back, give up, recite, represent, imitate, make to be or appear, f. red-re-1, 3 + -dere, as in addere ADD, ēdere EDIT, etc. ¶ The unusual retention in Eng. of the F. inf. ending is paralleled in TENDER<sup>2</sup>; perh. the AN. inf. render and tender were taken over without change to avoid collision with REND and TEND, which would have otherwise resulted.

rendezvous rə'n-, rā'n-, rā'divū, -deivū place for the assembling of troops; place of meeting. XVI (also randevou(s), etc.). - F. rendez-vous, sb. use of rendez-vous present or betake yourselves, imper. pl. of se rendre, refl. of rendre RENDER. Hence as vb. XVII. ¶ Somewhat earlier †rendy, repr. F. rendez, which was also so used.

renegade re:negeid apostate XVI; deserter of a cause, etc. XVII. Anglicization of renegado renigeiːdou (much used XVI-XVIII) - Sp. renegado - medL. renegātus, sb. use of pp. of renegāre; see next and -ADE, -ADO. The medL. word is also the source of It. rinnegato (whence F. renégat) and †renegate. XIV, later RUNAGATE.

renegue riniŋ deny, renounce; refuse XVI; revoke at cards XVII. - medL. renegāre, f. re-RE-7 + L. negāre DENY, f. **neg-* not, as in L. negōtium (see NEGOTIATE). Renegāre was repr. in OF. by reneier, whence Eng. †renay, †reny XIV-XVI.

rennet<sup>1</sup> re:nit curdled milk in a calf's stomach, preparation used in curdling milk for cheese. XV. prob. south-eastern repr. of an OE. **rynet* (f. **run-* RUN) and corr. to (dial.) runnet (XV), to which there appears to have been a parallel **rynels* (see -LE<sup>1</sup>), similarly repr. by †ren(d)lys, †rennesse, †renels, dial. rendles (cf. Flem. ren-, rin-, rinsel, whence G. dial. ren-, rinsel). Cf. also synon. OE. rynung, dial. running (also cheese-running XVI), †renning (XV), dial. earning (XVII), †ronnelles (XVI, rare). The sense is further exemplified in OE. gerinnan (intr.), gerennan (trans.) curdle, gerunnen curdled, OS. girunnian (intr.), girennian (trans.), G. gerinnen (intr.), rennen (trans.) curdle. ¶ The ordinary OE. word for rennet was česelyb prob. 'plant-juice for cheese-making', dial. česlip.

rennet<sup>2</sup> re:nit variety of apple. XVI (reinet, renate, runnet). - F. reinette, also raineite, prob. f. raine tree-frog (:- L. rāna frog), the fruit being so named from the spotted markings of some varieties. ¶ The F. form is also used.

renounce rinauːns give up, abandon. XIV (Wyclif). - (O)F. renoncer, corr. to Pr., Sp. renunciar, It. rinunziare - L. renuntiāre announce, proclaim, protest against, f. RE-RE-5 + nuntiāre bring news, report; cf. announce, etc. So renuncia-TION. XIV. - (O)F. or L.

replevin riple:vɪn (writ for) recovery by a person of goods or chattels taken from him. XV. - AN. replevin, f. OF. replevir recover (whence replevy XVI), f. re-RE-2 + plevir - Germ. **plegian* PLEDGE.

replica re:plikə reproduction of a work of art. XIX. - It. replica, f. replicare REPLY.

replication replikei:ʃən reply, rejoinder. XIV (Ch.). - OF. replicacion - L. replicatio(n) folding back, repetition, legal reply, f. pp. stem of replicare unfold, reflect on, reply, f. re-RE-1, † + plicare fold (see PLY). So reply riplai: answer, respond. XIV

report ripou:t rumour XIV (Ch.); account of a matter XV; †musical response, note; resounding noise XVI. - OF. report, f. reporter :- L. reportare carry back, bear away (spec. an account), f. re-RE-1 + portare carry (see FARE). So report vb. relate. XIV (Ch.); etc. - OF. reporter. reporter<sup>2</sup> XIV (spec. of legal cases, etc. XVII). - OF. reporteur. ¶ The prominent uses corr. to those of OF. raporter (mod. rapporter), f. re-RE-1 + aporter :- L. adportare.

repossé repou:sei beaten into relief. XIX. - F., pp. of reposses, f. re-RE-7 + pousser PUSH.

represent reprize:nt †bring into one's presence (Wyclif); bring before the mind (Barbour); display to the eye (Maund.); symbolize (Wyclif) XIV; stand in place of XV (speak for, as in parliament XVII, Cromwell). - (O)F. représenter or L. repræsentare, f. re-RE-7 + præsentare PRESENT. So representation †presence, †appearance, likeness XV (Caxton); presentation to the eye, mind, etc. XVI. - (O)F. or L. representative adj. XIV (Usk); sb. XVII (Clarendon). - (O)F. or medL.

repress ripre:s restrain, suppress, reduce. XIV (Ch., Gower). f. repress-, pp. stem of L. reprimere; see RE-3, PRESS. So repression. XIV (Ch.); thereafter not before XVI. - late L., so in F. (XV).

reprieve ripri:v †send back to prison; †postpone; delay the punishment of. XVI. First in pp. reprieved, for earlier repried (to prison) - AN., OF. repris, pp. of reprendre, f. re-RE-1, etc. † + prendre take (see PRISON). The change of repy to reprieve, and hence to reprie(e)ve, reprieve, is unexplained. Hence reprieve sb. XVI (Sh.), reprieve<sup>2</sup>. XVI (repriual, Sidney).

reprimand re·primànd sharp rebuke. XVII. - F. reprimande, †-ende - Sp. reprimenda - L. reprimenda, n.pl. of gerundive of reprimere REPRESS. So vb. XVII. - F. reprimander, f. the sb.

reprisal riprai·zəl seizing of property in retaliation or by way of indemnity xv; (esp. pl.) act of retaliation in warfare XVIII. - AN. reprisaille (XIV) - medL. repræsaliæ, -alia (XIII), contr. of repræ(h)ensaliæ, -ia (whence also F. représaille, It. rappresaglia), f. repræhēns-, pp. stem of L. repræhendere, f. re- RE-2, 5 + præhendere take (cf. GET); see -AL<sup>2</sup>.

reproach riprou·tʃ cast up (a thing) against a person xv (Caxton); upbraid xvi. - OF. reprochier (mod. reprocher) = Pr. repropchar, Sp. reprochar, It. rimprociare :- Rom. **repropiäre* 'bring back near', f. re-, RE-1, 6 + prope near (see PROXIMATE). So reproach sb. xv (Lydg.). - (O)F. reproche (corr. to Pr. repropche, etc.), f. the vb. (Earlier rare adoptions of these words are †reproce, †repruce (XIV) - AN. reproce, repruce, -er.)

reprobate re·probeit rejected by God; of abandoned character xvi; also sb. xvi. - late L. reprobatus, pp. of reprobare disapprove, f. re- RE-5 + probare approve, PROVE. (The currency is largely due to biblical usage, Vulg. reprobatus and A.V. reprobate rendering Gr. ἀδόκιμος not approved, not what one ought to be, esp. morally; see e.g. Rom. i. 28, 2 Cor. xiii. 5-7, 2 Tim. iii. 8, Tit. i. 16.) So reprobate vb. disapprove of xv; reject, cast off xvi. f. pp. stem of L. reprobare; see -ATE<sup>3</sup>. reprobation. xv. - (O)F. or late L.

reproduce riprə·djū·s create anew xvii (Cotgr.); repeat in a copy, etc. xix. f. RE-4 + PRODUCE vb., after F. reproduire. So reproduction. xvii (Pearson); after production.

reproof riprū·f †shame; †insult (Rolle); censure. xiv. ME. reprove, reprof(e) - OF. reprove, f. reprover - late L. reprobare; cf. PROOF, REPROBATE. So reprove riprū·v †reject; censure; reprochend. xiv. - OF. reprover (mod. reprouver).

reptile re·ptail creeping animal xiv (Gower; rare before xvii); mean person xviii. - (O)F. reptile or late L. (Vulg.) reptile, n. of late L. reptilis, f. rept-, pp. stem of repere creep, crawl (with Lett. and Lith. cogns.); see -ILE. Also adj. xvii. So reptilian repti·liən, f. repti·lia<sup>2</sup> (zool.) xvii.

republic ripa·blik †state, common weal; state in which the supreme power resides in the people (Bacon, Clarendon). xvii. - F. république - L. rēpublica, f. rēs affair, thing (see REAL<sup>1</sup>) + fem. of publicus PUBLIC. Hence republican †pert. to the commonwealth; pert. to (sb. advocate of) a republic xvii (earlier †republical); partly after F. républicain (D'Aubigné xvi); whence republicanism. xvii; so F. (xviii).

repudiate ripjū·dieit put away (a wife); reject xvi; (orig. U.S.) refuse to acknowledge (a debt, etc.) xix. f. pp. stem of L. repudiāre, f. repudiūm divorce, perh. rel. to ped-, pēs FOOT, as if 'spurn with the foot'; see -ATE<sup>3</sup>. So repudiation. xvi. - L. †Repudy sb. and vb. show earlier adoption xv.

repugnant ripa·gnənt contrary or contradictory to xiv (Usk); distasteful to xviii. - F. répugnant or L. repugnant-, -ans, prp. of repugnāre (whence repugn ripjū·n be contrary, oppose xiv), f. re- RE-6 + pugnāre fight (cf. PUGNACIOUS, IMPUGN); see -ANT.

repulse ripa·ls driving back; refusal, rejection. xvi. - L. repulsus, repulsa, f. pp. stem of repellere REPEL. So vb. xvi; repulsion †repudiation xv; act of repelling xvi; feeling of being repelled xviii. - late L.; cf. F. répulsion. repulsive. xvi. - (O)F. répulsif, -ive, or f. repulse vb.

reputation repjuitei·ʃən †opinion, estimation (Wycl.); †general estimate (Ch.); high esteem or credit. xiv. - L. reputātiō(n)- computation, consideration, f. reputāre, f. re- RE-7 + putāre reckon (see PUTATIVE); see -ATION. Cf. F. réputation. So repute ripjū·t consider, esteem. xv. - (O)F. réputer or L. reputāre. Hence repute †estimate; reputation (in neutral sense) xvi; (in favourable sense) xvii.

request rikwe·st act of asking. xiv. - OF. requeste = Pr. Sp. requesta, It. richiesta :- Rom. **requesita*, sb. use of fem. pp. of L. requerere REQUIRE. So vb. xvi. f. the sb. or - OF. requester, f. requeste.

requiem re·kwiam, ri- Mass for the departed. xiv (R. Mannyng) - L. requiem, acc. of requiēs rest, first word of the introit of the Mass, 'Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine' Rest eternal grant unto them, O Lord; see RE-7, QUIET.

require rikwaia·i ask, esp. authoritatively or imperatively. xiv. ME. requere, require - OF. requer-, requier-, stem of requere (now refash. requérir) = Pr. requerre, Sp. requerir, It. richiedere :- Rom. **requerere*, for L. requirere, f. re- RE-7 + querere seek, ask. Cf., for assim. of sp. to the L. form, ACQUIRE, INQUIRE. So requisite re·kwizit required, necessary xv; sb. xvii. - L. requisitus, pp. of requirere search for, pass. be necessary. requisition. xvi. - (O)F. or L. Hence vb. xix (Carlyle); after F. réquisitionner. requite rikwaia·t make return for. xvi. f. re- RE-7 + quite, var. of QUIT<sup>2</sup>. Hence requisite. xvi.

reredos riə·ɪdɒs ornamental screen at the back of an altar; (hist.) back of a fireplace. xiv. - AN. **reredos*, aphetic of OF. averedos, f. arere back (see ARREAR, REAR-) + dos back (cf. DOSS, DOSSAL). Disused after c.1550, until revived c.1835.

rermouse, rereward see REARMOUSE, REARGUARD.

rescind risi'nd †take away, remove; abrogate, cancel. XVII. - L. rescindere, f. re- RE- 7 + scindere cut or tear asunder (see SCISSION, SCISSORS).

rescript ri'skript decretal epistle from the Pope in reply to a question referred; edict, decree. XVI. - L. rescriptum imperial decision, sb. use of n. of pp. rescriptus of scribere reply in writing to a petition, etc., f. re- RE- 1 + scribere write (see SCRIPT).

rescue re'skju deliver from attack, siege, or harm. XIV. ME. rescoue, reskewe - rescou-, reskeu-, stem of OF. rescoure, reskeure (mod. recourre) = It. riscuotere recover (money) :- Rom. **reexcutare*, f. re- RE- 7 + excutare shake out, discard, f. ex EX-<sup>1</sup> + quatere shake (see QUASH). Hence re'scure vb. XIV. The contemp. syn. †rescous (- OF. rescouse, f. rescoure) survived in legal sense 'forcible recovery' till XVII.

research risē'rtʃ intensive searching XVI; investigation directed towards discovery XVII. - OF. recherche (now recherche). So vb. XVI. - OF. rechercher = It. ricercare. See RE- 7, SEARCH.

reseda risi'də genus of plants including mignonette. XVIII. - L. resēda, according to Pliny, f. imper. of resēdāre assuage, allay (see SEDATIVE), the formula resēdā morbīs 'assuage diseases' having been used as a charm when applying the plant to the reduction of tumours.

resemble rize'mbl be like (Ayenbite); †compare XIV (PPl.). - OF. resembler (mod. resembler), f. re- RE- 7 + sembler seem :- L. similāre, f. similis like (cf. SIMILITUDE). So resem'blance. XIV (Gower). - AN. resemblance.

resent rize'nt orig. †refl. feel pain; show strong feeling; trans. †feel deeply or painfully; feel oneself injured by, show displeasure at. XVII. (Several other uses, now obs., were current XVII-XVIII.) - F. †resentir, now ressentir (in refl. use XVI; so It. risentirsi), f. re- RE- 7 + sentir feel (see SENTIENT). So rese'ntment. XVII (†resentiment somewhat earlier XVI). - F. †resentiment, now ress-; cf. It. risentimento.

reserve rizə'rv keep for future use; keep or set apart. XIV (pp. reserved as adj. XVII). - (O)F. réserver - L. reservāre, f. re- RE- 1 + servāre keep, save; cf. CONSERVE, PRESERVE. Hence rese'rv sb. A. something reserved; mil., pl. and sg. force(s) kept in r. XVII (whence rese'rvist) after F.; B. self-restraint XVII. So reser'vation rezə'rvɛiʃən. XIV. - (O)F. or late L.

reside rizai'd †take up one's abode XV; dwell permanently XVI; be vested or inherent in XVII. prob. orig. back-formation from resident, but later infl. immed. by F. résider and L. residēre. So re'sidence act or fact of residing XIV (Ch., Wycl.). place of residence XVI. - (O)F. or medL.; cf. Pr. residensa, It. residenza, etc. resident re'zɪdnt residing XIV (Wycl. Bible); sb. XV. - (O)F. résident or L. resident, -ēns, prp. of residēre remain behind, rest, f. re- RE- 1 + sedēre settle, SIT. reside'ntiary one bound to official residence XVI; adj. XVII. - medL.

resign rizai'n give up, surrender, abandon XIV (Ch., Wyclif); intr. XV. - (O)F. résigner, corr. to Sp. resignar, It. rissegnare. - L. resignāre unseal, cancel, give up, f. re- RE- 2 + signāre SIGN. So resigna'tion rezɪg-. XIV (Trevisa). - (O)F. - medL.

resile rizai'l draw back, shrink, recoil. XVI. - F. †resilir or L. resilire leap back, recoil, f. re- RE- 1 + salire leap (see SALIENT). So resilient rizi'liənt returning to the original position. XVII. - L. resilient- prp. resi'lience. XVII (Bacon).

resin, rosin re'zin, rə'zɪn adhesive substance secreted by plants. XIV. Late ME. recyn, resyn, rosyn (Wycl. Bible), rosine (Gower). - L. resina (whence Pr. resina, F. résine XV, etc.) and medL. rosina (cf. OF. poix roisine XIII), prob. collateral adoption, with Gr. rhētīnē, from some non-IE. source. The medL. rosina is of unkn. origin; other Eng. vars. were †rosil (XV), rosel Sc. (XVI); cf. AL. rosetum (XV). So re'sinous, †ro'sinous. XVII. - F. résineux - L. resinōsus.

resipiscence resipi'səns acknowledgement of error, return to a better opinion. XVI (after long desuetude revived XIX). - F. résipiscence or late L. resipiscentia, f. resipiscere come to oneself again, f. re- + sapere know; see RE- 4, SAPIENT, -ENCE.

resist rizi'st withstand the action of. XIV (Ch.). - (O)F. résister or L. resistere, f. re- RE- 6 + sistere stop, redupl. formation on stāre STAND. So resi'stance. XV. - F. résistance, later form of †resistance (whence †resi'stence XIV Ch.) - late L.

resolute rezə'lju't †determinate, absolute; of fixed resolve. XVI (earlier uses XV were sporadic). - L. resolūtus, pp. of resolvere. So resoluti'on rezə'lju'ʃən †dissolution; resolving into components XIV (Wycl. Bible); decision, determination XVI. - L. noun of action f. L. and CRom. resolvere (f. re- RE- 7 + solvere SOLVE), whence resolve rɪzə'lv †dissolve (trans. and intr.) XIV (Ch., Trevisa); †soften, slacken XV; separate into; answer; solve; determine; †assure XVI; hence sb. XVI (Sh.).

resonance rezənəns reinforcement of sound. xv (Caxton). - F. †reson(n)ance (mod. résonance) - L. resonantia echo (Vitruvius), f. prp. stem of resonāre RESOUND. So re-sonant. xvi. - (O)F. résonnant.

resort rizō·it †return, revert xiv; betake oneself, repair or proceed to xv. - (O)F. resortir (mod. ressortir), f. re-RE-4 + sortir go out, of unkn. origin. So sb. that to which one resorts. xiv (Ch.). - (O)F. ressort, f. the vb.

resound rizau·nd ring with some sound xiv (Ch.); make an echoing sound; (arch.) proclaim, celebrate; (poet.) re-echo xvi. Late ME. resoune, f. re-RE-7 + soune SOUND<sup>2</sup> vb., after OF. resoner or L. resonāre (cf. RESONANCE).

resource rīsō·is means of supplying a want (Cotgr.); possibility of aid; expedient, device (Dryden). xvii. - F. ressource, †-ourse, sb. use of fem. pp. of OF. (dial.) resourdre rise again, recover :- L. resurgere (see RESURRECTION).

respect rispē·kt relation, reference xiv (Ch., Trevisa); relationship xv; discriminating regard (Prov. xxiv 23), deferential regard xvi. - (O)F. respect (corr. to Sp. respeto, It. rispetto) or L. respectus, f. pp. stem of respicere look (back) at, regard, consider, f. re-RE-1 + specere look (cf. ASPECT). So respe·ct vb. regard (also in various obs. senses); refer or relate to (in prp. respecting passing into prep. xviii). xvi. f. respect-, pp. stem of L. respicere, or its frequent deriv. respectāre. In prp. respecting passing into prep. xviii. So respe·ctable. xvi; cf. F. respectable, etc. respe·ctive. xvi. F. or medL. Cf. RESPITE.

respire rispaiə·i †(rare) come up to breathe xiv (Usk); breathe again, recover xv; breathe (trans. and intr.) xvi. - (O)F. respirer or L. respirāre, f. re-RE-4 + spirāre breathe; see SPIRIT and cf. ASPIRE, CONSPIRE. So respira·tion. xv (Lydg.). - F. or L. re·spirator. xviii; so F. respirateur.

respite re·spit delay or extension of time xiii (S. Eng. Leg.); temporary cessation of labour, etc. xiv. - OF. respit (mod. répit) = Pr. respieit :- L. respectus RESPECT. So re·spite vb. grant respite to or delay of. xiv (Ch., Gower). - OF. respitier :- L. respectāre.

resplendent risp·lëndənt shining, brilliant. xv. - L. resplendent-, -ēns, prp. of resplendēre, f. re-RE-7 + splendēre shine; see SPLENDID, -ENT.

respond rispō·nd (liturg.) responsory xiv; response to a versicle xvi. - OF. respond, f. respondre (mod. répondre) = Pr. respondre, etc. :- Rom. **respondere*, for L. respondēre answer to an engagement, f. re-RE-4 + spondēre make a solemn engagement (see SPONSOR). So respo·nd vb. answer. xvi. - L. respondēre. respo·ndent one who defends a thesis; (leg.) defendant. xvi.

response rispō·ns answer, reply xiv; (liturg.) verse corresponding to a versicle xvii (earlier, responsory xv). ME. respons (not continuous with OE. respons). - OF. respons (mod. répons) or response (mod. réponse) or L. responsum (pl. -a), f. pp. of respondēre. respo·nsible †corresponding to xvi (B. Jonson); answerable to another for something; reliable xvii. - F. †responsable. responsion rispō·nʃən †sum to be paid xv; †response xvi; (Oxford Univ.) first examination for the B.A. degree (in which the candidates 'responderunt in Parviseo'). respo·nsive responding, corresponding. xvi. - F. responsif, -ive, or late L. respo·nsory<sup>1</sup> (liturg.) anthem to be recited antiphonally after a lesson. xv. - late L. responsorium.

rest<sup>1</sup> rest A. relief from activity by sleep, intermission of labour, repose of body or mind OE.; repose of death xiv (Wycl. Bible); (mus.) xvi. B. (from the vb) support for a fire-arm xvi; gen. support xvii. OE. ræst, rest repose, bed, corr. to OFris. rasta in rastelik restful, OS. rasta place of rest, OHG. rasta rest, league (G. rast), ON. røst, Goth. rasta mile (as a distance after which one rests); on another grade are based MLG. roste, ruste (whence G. riiste), MDu. ruste. Further connexions have been seen in OE. ærn, ræn dwelling (cf. BARN) = Goth. ræzn, and OIr. árus (- **adrostu-*) dwelling-place. So rest vb.<sup>1</sup> take or be at rest; remain OE.; give rest to xiii. OE. ræstan, restan = OFris. resta, OHG. resten, rastōn (G. rasten), and (M)Du. rusten. Hence re·stful<sup>1</sup>. xiv. re·stless. OE. restlēas; cf. G. rastlos, Du. rusteloos.

rest<sup>2</sup> rest †remainder, remnant; †sum remaining over (xv; reserve fund of a bank xix); remaining part, number, members xvi; in primero, stakes kept in reserve, freq. in allusive phr. for venture, resolution, stay, residence xvi. - (O)F. reste, f. rester, whence rest vb.<sup>2</sup> remain so-and-so. corr. to Sp., Pg. restar, It. restare, vistare - L. restāre, f. re-RE-1 + stāre STAND.

rest<sup>3</sup> rest in mediæval armour, contrivance fixed to the cuirass to receive the butt-end of a lance. xiv. Aphetic of ARREST sb.; cf. It. resta, Pg. reste, riste, Sp., Pg. ristre (hence enristrar put the lance in rest).

restaurant re·stərā establishment for the provision of refreshments or meals. xix. - F. restaurant, sb. use (1765; earlier in the sense 'restorative', La Fontaine) of prp. of restaurer RESTORE; see -ANT. So restauration restərətōr keeper of a restaurant xviii; †restaurant xix (somewhat earlier than restaurant). - F.

rest-harrow re·sthə·rou field shrub, Ononis arvensis, with tough roots. xvi. expl. by early writers to mean 'plant that arrests the harrow' (f. aphetic form of ARREST) and so hinders the labourer; cf. OF. restehoef 'stop-ox', whence medL. resta bovis.

restitution restitjū·ʃən action of giving back XIII (Cursor M.); restoration to a former state XIV (Trevisa, Wycl. Bible); tendency to resume a previous position XVII (Boyle). - (O)F. restitution or L. restitūtio(-n-), f. restituere restore, f. re-RE-4 + statuere set up, establish; see STATUTE, -TION.

restive re·stiv †inactive, inert XVI; †obstinate in opinion or action; (of horses) refusing to move or follow a course XVII. Later form (by assim. to -IVE) of †restif XV. - OF. restif (mod. rétif) = Pr. restiu, It. restio :- Rom. **restivus* 'inclined to remain stationary', f. restāre REST vb.<sup>2</sup> ¶ With dial. var. resty (XVI) cf. HARDY, JOLLY, TESTY.

restore ristō·ɪ give back; build up again; reinstate; renew, re-establish XIII (RGlouc., Cursor M.); bring back to an earlier condition XIV (R. Mannyng). - OF. restorer (mod. restaurer) = It. ristorare :- L. restaurāre (whence also Sp. restaurar, It. restaurare); see RE-2, STORE vb. So restoration restōrei·ʃən action of restoring XVII; (R-) re-establishment of the monarchy in England in 1660 XVII. Later form (assim. to the vb.) of restauration (XIV) - (O)F. or late L. resto·rative adj. and sb. XIV. Var. of †restaurative (XIV, Gower, Trevisa) - OF. restauratif, -ive.

restrain ristrei·n put a check on, restrict. XIV. ME. restreyne, restrayne - OF. restrei(g)n-, -ai(g)n-, pres. stem of restreindre, restrindre = Pr. restrenher, Cat. restrenyer, It. ristringere :- L. ristringere bind fast, confine, f. re-RE-2 + stringere draw tight (see STRAIN, STRICT). So restrai·nt. XV. - (O)F. restrainte, f. pp. of restreindre. restrict ristri·kt confine within limits. XVI (Lyndesay). f. restrict-, pp. stem of L. ristringere. (Stigmatized by Johnson as 'a word scarce English' and included by Beattie in his 'Scotticisms', 1787.) restrict·ion. XV (Hoccleve). restrictive. XIV (Maund). - (O)F. or late L.

result rizi·lt arise as a consequence or effect. XV. - medL. rumple rʌ·mpl crease, wrinkle, crumple. XVII. f. rumple sb. wrinkle, fold (XVI, Dunbar). - (M)Du. rompel, deriv. of MDu. rompe, MLG. rumpe wrinkle, or - MDu., MLG. rumpelen, rompelen, rel. to OE. **rimpan*, in pp. gerumpen contracted, wrinkled, (M)LG., (M)Du. rimpel wrinkle, OHG. rimpfan (G. rümpfen).

run<sup>1</sup> rʌn, pt. ran ræn, pp. run rʌn go along at quicker than walking pace; (gen.) move forward with speed. In finite parts of this vb. the present form with -u- is not current before XVI (runne), but the var. ronne is earlier. The vowel resulted from levelling through from forms in which it was original, viz. pt. pl. runnen (OE. **runnon*) and pp. runne(n), ronnen (pp. gerunnen coagulated, curdled). OE. rinnan, pt. rann = OFris. rinna, renna, OS., OHG. rinnan, (MLG., MDu., G. rinnen), ON. rinna, Goth. rinnan; CGerm. str. vb. of unkn. origin. But the metathesized form of this was commoner in OE., viz. iernan (pt. arn, orn, urnon, pp. urnen), which died out in ME., except for a few survivals in mod. dialects. The common ME. present tense forms rinne, renne, were prob. due to ON. rinna, renna, with pt. ran, pp. run, reinforced from the same source. Hence run sb. XV (act or spell of running; later in many techn. uses). ¶ Parallel developments are found in BURN<sup>2</sup>.

runagate rʌ·nəgeit †apostate; (arch.) deserter, runaway; vagabond. XVI. alt. of ren(n)egate (see RENEGADE), by assoc. with renne RUN and agate on the way, away, (f. A-<sup>1</sup>+gate, GAIT).

runcible rʌ·nsibl r. spoon kind of fork for pickles curved like a spoon and having three broad prongs (one with a sharp edge). XIX. First used by Edward Lear as a nonsense word in r. cat, r. hat, r. spoon; supposed to be alt. of rouncival, which has been used in many senses of obscure origin, and has been identified with the place-name Roncesvalles (Roncevaux).

runcinate rʌ·nsineit irregularly saw-toothed. XVIII. - modL. runcinātus, f. L. runcina joiner's plane (formerly taken also to mean a kind of saw); see -ATE<sup>2</sup>.

rundale rʌ·ndeil form of joint occupation of land. XVI. (Sc. ryndale, rindaill, later rendal, rennal, anglicized rundale). f. rin, Sc. var. of RUN+dale, north. form of DOLE.

rune rʌn character of the earliest Germanic alphabet. XVII. Adopted from Danish writers on Northern antiquities, and repr. ON. **rūn*, pl. rūnar, rūnir secret or hidden lore, runes, magical signs (Sw. runa, Da. rune) = OE. rūn mystery, runic letter, secret consultation, OS., OHG., Goth. rūna (cf. ROUND<sup>2</sup>). So runic. XVII (Evelyn). - modL. rūnicus. ¶ The words have been adopted into other Eur. langs.; e.g. G., Du. rune, F. rune, runique; also Finnish runo poem, song of the Kalevala, whence rune has been so used in Eng., and gen. for 'song, poem, verse' (XIX).

rung rʌŋ stick of rounded form used as a rail, etc. OE.; stave of a ladder XIII. OE. hrung = MLG. runge (Du. rong), OHG. runga (G. runge from LG.), Goth. hrugga þáþdos.

(Thracian) brizā (= **vrugjā*). The place of origin and route of transmission are not clear. Hence RYE-GRASS A. for earlier ray-grass (XVII) species

ryot rai'ət Indian peasant or husbandman. XVII (riat, Purchas). – Urdu ra'iyat, raiyat – Arab. ra'iyah flock, herd, subjects, peasants, f. ra'ā pasture, feed.

s, -s z repr. OE. g. sg. -es of many m. and n. sbs., written universally 's, as boy's, horse's, lady's, with extension to certain pls., as men's; special cases are its use (1) as a euphem. repr. of God's (g. of GOD) in oaths, as 'sblood (XVI), 'sdeath (XVII), 'slife (XVII), 'swounds (XVI; see ZOUNDS); (2) in the terminal el. -sman, the extensive use of which, as in craftsman, helmsman, kinsman, salesman, spokesman, sportsman, tradesman, is a generalization of the combination found in OE. stēoresmann STEERSMAN, tūnesmann (occupier of a manor) TOWNSMAN.

b. Identical with the inflexion of the g. sg. is the -s surviving in certain advb. forms, viz. always, eftsoons, needs, nowadays, (go your) ways, -wards, -ways, which are particular instances of the use exemplified by such OE. advs. as dægēs by day, sōþes in truth, truly, þances voluntarily. There were also OE. advs. compounded with tō TO and a genitive, as tōgēgnes against, tōmiddes amidst, by the side of which were synon. ongēgn AGAIN, onmiddan AMID; hence there arose in ME. mixed forms such as ažeines, amiddes; and -(e)s became generalized, as in EFTSOONS, -WARDS, -WAYS. In once, twice, thence, hence, whence, since, the suffix has been otherwise spelt in order to avoid the suggestion of pronunc. with z which is associated with -ns, viz. nz. In AGAINST, AMIDST, AMONGST, anest (see ANENT), dial. onct (ONCE), there is a parasitic t. ¶ In the disjunctive prons. (orig. northern) hers, ours, theirs, yours (ME. hires, heres, ures, etc.) the -s is presumably analogical after his, as the -n of the parallel dial. hern, hism, ourn, etc. is after mine, thine.

Sabaan, Sabean sabi'ən pert. to the ancient people of Yemen in Arabia. XVI (Sidney). f. L. Sabæus – Gr. Sabaōs, f. Sāba – Arab. Saba' = Heb. Shebā'; see -AN.

shay [ʃeɪ] chaise. XVIII (also chay). Back-formation from CHAISE fejz, misapprehended as pl.

she [ʃi, ʃi] 3rd sg. fem. nom. pers. pron. This form repr. east midl. ME. scæ (XII, Peterborough Chronicle), sze, sse, sche (XIII), parallel with which there was ME. sho, sho, north. seo, surviving in n.w. dial. shoo. These two types appear to descend from divergent developments of OE. fem. demons. pron.-adj. sio, sēo, acc. sie (see THE), resulting from the conversion of the falling diphthongs io, ie into rising diphthongs jō, jē, viz. sjō, sjē passing into ʃō, ʃē; cf. the development of OE. fem. pers. pron. hēo, acc. hīe, to ME. ʒho, ʒhe (oo, for hoo, survives in some northerly dial.). ¶ The necessity for a new form for this pron. arose partly from the coincidence in ME. of OE. hē (he) and hēo (she) under the form he. For the parallel use of the fem. demons. for 'she' cf. OS. and OHG. siu (Du. zij, G. sie) = OE. sēo, and OFris. se, beside hiu, and in ON. the use of the demons. pron. of all genders as a pers. pron.

- shunt [ʃʌnt] †swerve, shy, shrink away XIII; (dial.) shove XVIII; move (a railway train) from one line to another XIX. ME. schunte, perh. a deriv. of SHUN.
- shut [ʃʌt] pt., pp. shut †fasten (a bolt), (a door, etc.) with a bolt; move (a door, etc.) so as to close an aperture XIII. OE. scýttan (more freq. in the comp. forscýttan) = OFris. sketta, (M)LG. (M)Du. schutten shut up, obstruct :- WGerm. **skuttjan*, f.

**skut-* **skeut-* SHOOT. The normal repr. of OE. scýttan is shit(te), the prevailing form down to XVI, except for the south-eastern shet(te), used by Ch. and Gower; the form shut was taken into standard Eng. from the west midlands. Hence shu·t·t·er<sup>1</sup> XVII; short for †window-shutter (XVII), repl. earlier †window-shut and simple shut.

shute ʃut channel for conveying water to a lower level XVIII; steep channel down which stuff is shot XIX. Partly var. of SHOOT sb., partly var. sp. of CHUTE.

shuttle ʃʌtl weaver's instrument for shooting the thread of the weft backwards and forwards. XIV. repr. OE. **slæht*, **sleht* (as in wælslehta g. pl.), corr. to OS. -slahra, (M)Du. slacht, OHG. slacht (G. schlacht battle), ON. sláttir, slátta. Hence vb., esp. of massacring people and killing cattle XVI.

Slav slāv, slæv member of any of a large group of peoples of Eastern Europe comprising Russians, Bulgarians, Serbs, Poles, Czechs, and Wends. XIV (Slave, Trevisa). In earliest use - medL. Sclavus, corr. to medGr. Sklābos; so MHG. Schlaff, etc.; later, after medL. Slavus, F., G. Slawe; So Slavonian slāvounian XVI, Slavonic -ō-nik XVII. f. medL. S(c)lavōnia, f. Slavus; superseded Slavon - F. Esclavon. Cf. SLOVAK, SLOVENE.

slave sleiv one who is owned by another person. XIII (S. Eng. Leg.). ME. slave, aphetic - (O)F. esclave, prop. fem. of esclaf = Pr. esclau m., esclava fem., Sp. esclavo, -va, Pg. escravo, -va, It. schiaivo, -va, Rum. schiau, medL. slavus, -va, identical with the ethnic name Slavus SLAV, the Slavonic races having been reduced to a servile state by conquest. Hence sla-VERY. XVI; cf. MDu. slaverie, Du. -erij, G. sklaverei. slavey slei-vi, slæ-vi †male servant or attendant; female domestic servant; see -Y<sup>0</sup>, sla-VISH<sup>1</sup>. XVI.

slaver slæ-vər allow saliva to fall. XIV (so also sb.). prob. of symbolic origin like synon. (dial.) slabber (XVI), prob. of LDu. origin, and SLOBBER; see -ER<sup>4</sup>.

slay<sup>1</sup> slei pt. slew slū, pp. slain slein (rhet.) †strike; kill. OE. slēan, pt. slōg, slōh, slōgon, pp. (gē)slægen, slēgen, slagen = OFris. slā, OS., OHG. slahan (Du. slagen, G. schlagen), ON. slá, Goth. slahan; the Germ. base **slax-* **slag-* **slög-* strike has no recognizable cogns. The present form of the inf. and pres. stem appeared XIV and is derived from the pp., finally superseding slea, slee (ME. slēn). See SLEDGE<sup>1</sup>.

slay<sup>2</sup>, sley slei instrument for beating up the weft. OE. slēge = OS. slegi; f. base of prec.

slavee sliv divide, split (spec. silk into filaments). XVI. OE. slāfan (in comp. tōslāfan), causative f. **slāf-*, rel. to **slifan* (see SLIVER). Hence slavee sb. silk in filaments. XVI; now used only in echoes of Sh. 'Macbeth' II ii 37 Sleepe that knits vp the ruel'd Sleeue of Care.

sleek slik having a perfectly smooth surface. XVI (Sh.). var. of slick (XIV), ME. slike, prob. repr. OE. **slīce*, rel. to **slīcian* (as in nig|sliced 'newly polished', glossy) and Icel. slíkja, Norw. slíkja be or make smooth. Cf. SLICK.

sub- sab, sɒb prep. sub (SUB<sup>1</sup>) under, close to, up to, towards, used in composition with the several meanings given below. The full form is retained before vowels and b, d, l, n, s, t; the b is assimilated to c, f, g, p, and often to m and r. A by-form subs- was normally reduced to sus- in comps. with initial c, p, t. As a living prefix it is capable of being used with words of any origin. Its orig. force is either entirely lost sight of or much obscured in many words, as in subject, suborn, subscribe, substance. (Where its form is disguised, as in succeed, suffer, suppose, analysis of the comp. does not readily suggest itself.) The main stress may fall either on the prefix or on the appropriate syll. of the radical el. (for exx. see below); in sense (2), in titles, the stress tends to be level.

It is used with the foll. senses:—(1) under, underneath, below, at the bottom (of), as subaqueous, subterranean; (2) subordinate, subsidiary, secondary, esp. in titles; subordinately, as subdeacon; (3) math. compounded with adjs. expressing a ratio the inverse of that of the radical element, as in submultiple, subtriple; (4) next below or after, near or close (to), as in subapostolic, subsequent, suburb; (5) incomplete(ly), imperfect(ly), partial(ly), as in subaci subcylindrical, subtriangular; (6) secretly, covertly, as in suborn; (7) from below, up, (hence) away, as in succour, suggest, suspicion; (8) in place of another, as in substitute; (9) in addition, as in subjoin.

super sʊˈpɑɪ short for SUPERFICIAL, SUPERFINE, SUPERINTENDENT, SUPERNUMERARY. XIX.

super- sʊpɑɪ prefix repr. L. super-, being the adv. and prep. super above, on the top of, beyond, besides, rel. to SUB- as Skr. upāri above, over, moreover, to upa up, hither, to, towards.

The gen. rule for the stressing of super- comps. is that the prefix carries a secondary stress, e.g. suˈperˌɑːdɑː, suˈperˌerogɑːtʃən, suˈperphɔːsfeɪt, suˈpersubstɑːntʃəl; but this syll. carries the main stress when a contrast is implied with the radical el., e.g. suˈper- structure; in superfluous and superlative the stress is on the second syll. of the prefix.

The chief meanings are: (1) over, above, at the top (of), in advb., prep., or adj. force, as superaltar (XIV), celestial (XVI), superstructure (XVII); (2) higher in rank, quality, or degree, as superessential (XVI), supermundane (XVII), superessential (XVII); (3) in or to the highest or a very high degree, (hence) in excess, as superabundant, abundant (XV, Bokenham, Hoccleve), superfine; (4) expressing addition, as superadd (XV), super-tax (XX). Cf. SUPRA-, SUR-<sup>2</sup>.

OE. þes m., þeos fem., þis n., corr. to OFris. this, thius, thit, OS. **these*, thius, thit, OHG. dese, deser, desiu, diz, ON. þessi, þetta; WGerm. and ON. formation on **þa-* (see THE, THAT) and deictic **se*, **si* (poss. = OHG. sē, Goth. sai behold!). The earlier formation is seen in ON. (runic) sási, súsi, þatsi, acc. sg. þansi, þási, þatsi, d. þainsi, n.pl. þausi (cf. with deictic IE. k<sup>ue</sup> = L. -ec in hic, hujusce, etc. this, Goth. -(u)h in sah, soh, þatuh this). The þ- forms were ult. extended throughout the paradigm, and, whereas orig. the first alone was inflected (e.g. OHG. n. nom. dese, g. sg. desse, pl. dese), the second cl. came to be inflected also (e.g. OHG. g. sg. deses = OE. bisses); finally the first el. ceased to be inflected. As adv. equiv. to thus in various uses (xiv); now esp. in this much, this far, and the like), perh. from OE. instr. þýs, þis, or acc. sg. n. þis. Hence thi-WISE. XIII (Cursor M.).

thistle þi'sl prickly plant of the genus Carduus and closely allied genera. OE. þistel (some mod. dials. authenticative i, e.g. Somerset dai'sl) = OS. thistil, OHG. distil, distila (LG. diestel, dístel, Du. distel, G. distel, also diestel), ON. þistill :- Germ. **þistilaz, -ilō*, of unkn. origin.

thither ði:ðai to that place. OE. þider, alt. by assim. to hider HITHER, of earlier þæder, corr. to ON. þaðra there, thither, f. demons. base **þa-* of THAT, THE + suffix denoting 'towards' (IE. **trā(d)*), as in L. intrā within, extrā outside, Skr. áttra there, then). ¶ For the change of d to ð cf. un<sup>1</sup> ʌn, n dial. survival of OE. hine, accus. of HE. XVII ('hun', B. Jonson).

un<sup>2</sup>, 'un ʌn, n dial. and vulgar form of ONE; reduction of ōn, but often sp. with an apostrophe as if for wun.

un<sup>-1</sup> ʌn OE. un- = OFris. un-, on-, oen-, (M)Du. on-, OS. (LG.), (O)HG., Goth. un-, ON. ú-, ó-, corr. to OIr. in-, an-, L. in- IN-<sup>2</sup>, Gr. an-, a- A-<sup>4</sup>, AN-<sup>2</sup>, Arm. an-, Skr. an-, a- :- IE. **h<sub>2</sub>-*, gradation-var. of ne not (see NE). This prefix, expressing negation or contradiction, is capable of being compounded with adjs., advs., pples.

It has been most frequently used with pples. and adjs., but there has been restriction with short simple adjs. (e.g. unblithe, unbold, unbroad, unfast, unglad, unslack, unstrong), there being usu. available simple forms with opposite positive meanings; but unclean, uneven, unmild, untrue, unwise, etc. are of OE. date (some of them of Germ. extent), while unable, undue, uneasy, unjust, unlike, unsafe (Hooker, Sh.) are notable exx. of comps. with adjs. of alien origin. On the other hand derivs. from adjs. in -able, -al, -ant, -ar, -ary, -ent, -ful, -ible, -ic(al), -ish, -ive, -ous, -y are very numerous; uncomeatable (XVII, Congreve) and ungetatable (XIX) are notably elaborate formations, with an extreme case in Ben Jonson's un-in-one-breath-utterable. Formations with pples. appear freely from OE. times onwards. There are several comps. in common use of which the simplex is now obs. or rare, or not current in the relevant senses, as unbounded, undaunted, unfailing, unfeeling, ungainly, unmeaning, unprincipled, unruly, unsightly, unspeakable, untiring, untrodden, unwieldy. Adjectives of certain types have not usu. been susceptible of the combination, as big, great, huge, vast, fat, fond, large, long, near, stupid, ugly, wrong; Keats's untremendous is a fanciful coinage. Participles with pendent particles are freely used, e.g. uncalled-for, unreferred-to, unthought-of.

There are many parallel formations with IN-<sup>2</sup>, esp. in the earlier periods, e.g. inactive, inconstant, immeasurable, insatiable, beside inactive, unconstant, unmeasurable, unsatisfiable; moral, and its distinguishable negatives, immoral, unmoral, amoral, make an exceptional series.

A pejorative sense ('bad', 'evil') of the prefix was exemplified in OE., e.g. un(ge)weder bad or stormy weather (cf. G. unwetter, ungewitter), untid wrong time (cf. UNTIMELY), unwyrd misfortune; it continued into ME. with limited currency, and survived in Sc. dial. in a formation on an alien word, viz. unbeest wild beast, monster (XIII-XIX), with which cf. G. untier.

The stress is normally on the basic syll. exc. in attrib. use, e.g. unearned income, untold riches, or contrasted use, e.g. even and uneven patches.

un-<sup>2</sup> an prefix expressing reversal or deprivation. OE. un-, on-, an- = OFris. und-, un(t)-, and-, on(t)-, OS. ant- (Du. ont-), OHG. ant-, int- (G. ent-), orig. identical with and- in OE. andswaru ANSWER, andlong ALONG<sup>2</sup>. Most of the OE. formations have a simple vb. as their base, as unbindan unbind, undōn UNDO, ungeocian unyoke, and denote reversal of the action; the few denoting removal or deposition were increased later, as unfasten, unfix, unhorse (a rider), unlace, unmail, unsettle, unstitch, as also those denoting freedom or release, as unbosom, uncage, unearth, unhorse (a carriage), unhouse, unsheathe, unsphere; from late xvi comps. denoting deprivation of a quality or status appear, as unchurch, unking, unman.

The redundant use of the prefix is rare, the chief ex. being unloose (cf. OE. unliesan, ME. unlese), with dial. unbare, unrip (xvi), unstrip, etc.

Both un-<sup>1</sup> and un-<sup>2</sup> may be repr. in such a pp. form as unsaddled, which may mean 'not saddled or having a saddle' or 'removed from or deprived of a saddle'.

una ju-nə catboat. Name of the first boat of the kind brought from America to England in 1853.

Alt. of (dial.) upsideown (XV), var. of †upse-down, †up sadown, for earlier †up so down (XIV), orig. meaning 'so as to be upset or overturned'. The form of this phr. is difficult to account for, there being no appropriate use of so; but †up so down may itself be a perversion of †up to down (RGlouc. Chronicle 6831), with var. †up adown, which may be modelled on (O)F. de haut en bas 'from high to low'. The present form, and †up set (or †upset) down, are due to attempts to express intelligibly the meaning 'with the upper side (set) down'.

upsides ʌpsaɪ·dz even or quits with. XVIII. orig. Sc.; f. UP, SIDE sb., -s. Cf. MSw. upsidhes.

water-souchy wɔ·təɪ sū·tʃi, sū·ʃi fish boiled and served in its liquor. XVIII. - Du. waterzootje, f. water WATER + zootje, zoodje boiling (of fish), f. zode boiling, rel. to zieden SEETHE.

watt wɒt (physics) unit of activity or power. XIX (Siemens, 1882). f. name of James Watt (1736-1819), inventor of the modern steam engine and a pioneer in the science of energy.

wattle<sup>1</sup> wɔ·tl (pl. and coll. sg.) stakes intertwined with twigs or branches used as fencing, etc. OE. watul, perh. rel. to wætla bandage for a wound and poss. :- **wæðlaz* (for the treatment of ð cf. bottle, bottom), f. IE. **wodh-* weave; see WEED<sup>3</sup>, -LE<sup>1</sup>. Hence vb. xiv (PPL).

wattle<sup>2</sup> wɔ·tl fleshy lobe pendent from the head or neck of poultry, etc. XVI. Of unkn. origin; the occurrence of watol for 'bag' or 'basket' in some MSS. (others walet) in PPL. C. XI 269 and the casual use of wallets of flesh in Sh. 'Tempest' III iii 46 do not afford sufficient evidence that wattle is a metathetic var. of wallet.

wave<sup>1</sup> weɪv move to and fro, shake or sway as with the wind. The word in the above senses as at present used is not clearly evident before XVI. Though of similar meaning, it is not certainly continuous with OE. wafian (recorded twice) make a movement to and fro with the hands, corr. to MHG. waben wave, undulate, f. Germ. **wab-*, repr. also by ON. vafi doubt, uncertainty, vafj, vafja wavering and WAYER. The grade-var. **wæb-* is repr. by ON. vafa swing, vibrate.

waver wei·vər †wander, rove; fluctuate, vacillate; †sway. XIV. orig. north. and eastern; -ON. vafra move unsteadily, flicker (Norw. vavra go to and fro, stagger) = MHG. waberen (G. wabern) move about, frequent. f. Germ. **wab-*; cf. WAVE<sup>1</sup>, -ER<sup>4</sup>.

wax<sup>1</sup> wæks substance produced by bees to make the honeycomb; beeswax melted down, etc.; as used for sealing, superseded by a compound of lac, etc. OE. wæx, wæax = OFris. wax, OS., OHG. wahs (Da. was, G. wachs), ON. wax :- CGerm. (exc. Goth.) **waxsam*, cogn. with OSl. voskū (Russ. vosk), Czech vosk, to be referred ult. to IE. **weg-* weave, whence OIr. figim I weave, L. vēlum VEIL (for the sense connexion cf. OHG. wabe honeycomb, f. **webh-* WEAWE<sup>1</sup>). Hence wax vb. XIV, wā-xen<sup>3</sup>. XIV; repl. OE. wexen, **wiexen*. wā-xWORK modelling in wax. XVII.

way wei road, path; course of travel, life, or action, distance travelled. VEHICLE). ¶ The sense development has been influenced by L. via and F. voie, of which the Eng. word has been the normal rendering; many senses are of biblical origin; Heb. derek and Gr. hodós (rendered in Vulg. by via) have a wide range; phr. under way (naut.) having begun to move through the water. XVIII. - Du. onderweg; also sp. weigh; whence perh. sense 'rate of progress, velocity' XVIII.

-way wei terminal el. orig. joined in a phr. with an adj. surviving in a few comps., as

anyway, crossway, edgeway, everyway, half-way, midway, noway, someway, straightway, the earliest being alway (OE. accus. ealne weg); most of these have parallel and synon. forms in -WAYS.

waybread wei·bred plantain. OE. weg-bræde, corr. to OS. wegabreda, OHG. wegabreita (G. wegbreit m., wegebrente f.), WGerm. comp. of WAY and **braidjōn*, f. **braid-* BROAD, the etymol. sense being 'broad-leaved plant of the roadside(s)'.

way-side side of a road or path. XIV.
wayward wei·wərd disposed to be self-willed XIV (Wyclif); capriciously wilful XVI. Aphetic of awayward (XIV), f. AWAY + -WARD; the sense development was prob. infl. by the notion of the word being f. WAY, as if 'bent on going one's own way'; cf. FROWARD.

waygoose wei·zgūs entertainment given to printers orig. at Bartholomew-tide (24 August), when working by candle-light began; later, annual feast held in summer. Earlier waygoose (XVII, Moxon), the present form being recorded first by Bailey (1731) and explained as 'stubble goose', f. alleged var. wayz of wase bundle of straw, of which there is no confirmation.

wazir waziə·ɪ see VIZIER. XVIII.

wē wī, wi you, he, she, or they, and I. OE. wē, corr. to OFris. wī, OS. wī, wē, OHG. wir (Du. wij, G. wir), ON. vér, vær, Goth. weis. These forms repr. more than one Germ. type; Goth. weis repr. Germ. **wīz* :- **wēis*, extension (with pl. -s) of **wēi*, repr. also by Skr. vaydm, Av. vāēm; other forms may repr. **wīz*, of doubtful origin; Tokh. has was;

weald wĭld the tract of country, formerly wooded, lying between the North and the South Downs. OE., WS. var. of wald WOLD; normally repr. by ME. weld, the present weald being a reversion to the OE. wæald, due to Lambarde. Hence Wealden wĭldən (pert. to) a formation of cretaceous deposits extensively developed in the Weald. XIX; the use of the suffix -EN<sup>3</sup> is arbitrary.

wean wĭn accustom to the loss of its mother's milk. OE. wenian accustom, (rare) wean (usu. āwenian, sometimes gewenian; cf. G. entwöhnen), OFris. wenna, OS. wennian (Du. wennen), OHG. gi|wennen (G. -wöhnen), ON. venja :- CGerm. (exc. whitlow mī-tlou inflammatory sore on finger or thumb. XIV. orig. whitflaw, -flow, i.e. WHITE+FLAW<sup>1</sup> breach, fissure; but the similarity of the first syll. to Du. fijt, †viit, LG. fit, suggests a poss. alien origin; the alt. to whitlow (XV) and †whitblow (XVI) is not accounted for.

whitster mī-tstəɹ bleacher. XV (Promp. Parv.). f. WHITE + -STER.

Whit Sunday, Whitsunday mī-tsa'ndi, mī-tsəndei seventh Sunday after Easter Day, Pentecost. Late OE. Hwita Suman-dæg (extant only in obl. case Hwitan S.) 'White Sunday', so named prob. from the ancient custom of wearing white robes by the newly baptized at the Feast of Pentecost (cf. Dominica in albis 'Sunday in whites'; name of the First Sunday after Easter, so given for the same reason; MLG. wit-sondach, MDu. wittensondagh are also so applied). The normal shortening of the vowel of the first syll., by obscuring the composition of the word, led to various apprehensions of it, so that it has been differently divided, whence Whitsun eve and week (XIII) beside Whit Monday (XVI), etc. Whi-tsuntide mī-tsa'ntaid Whitsunday and the days immediately following. XIII. ¶ As the name of a Sc. term-day (15 May) W. has been long dissociated from the church festival.

whittle mī-tl cut thin slices from XVI; fig. XVIII. f. (dial.) whittle large knife (XV), var. of thwi-ttle, f. thwite (OE. þwitan shave off, cogn. with geþwit chip, ON. þveita small axe, þveiti(i) cut-off piece).

Y

y- i prefix repr. OE. ġe- = OFris. gi-, ge-, ie-, e-, OS. gi-, ge-, i-, MLG., MDu. ge-, ghe- (LG., Du. ge-), OHG. ga-, ka-, gi-, ki- (G. ge-, dial. je-), Goth. ga- - Germ. **ga-*; in Scand. the prefix had disappeared as a living element in prehistoric times but relics survive in ON. glíkr LIKE<sup>1</sup>, gnógr ENOUGH. The parallelism of form and meaning shown by such words as L. communis and Goth. gamains, OE. ġemæne COMMON, L. conventire CONVENE and Goth. gagiman assemble, has suggested the possibility of the identity of Germ. **ga-* and L. COM-. This prefix is disguised in form or its force is obliterated in AFFORD, ALIKE, AMONG, AWARE, EACH, EITHER, NEITHER, ENOUGH, EVERYWHERE, HANDICRAFT, HANDWORK. From mid-XVI archaizing poets created new formations, e.g. ychain'd, ydrop, yglauñst, yshrilled, occas. with prp., as ycausing (Sackville), star-ypointing (Milton). The orig. physical meaning 'with', 'together', yielded the notion of associations, and hence of appropriateness, suitability, and collectivity, the final stage being the notion of completeness and perfectivity, a special application being the use of the prefix in pps., regular in OE. and continuing in southern ME. till xv, and repr. by a- in mod. dial. use. The OE. form ġe- was succeeded in ME. by ȝe-, ie-, i-, y-, the last of which is regular in Spenser and his imitators, as in YCLAD clothed, YCLEPT called, yfet fetched, ywrit written.

-y<sup>1</sup> i suffix of adjs. denoting 'having the character of . . .', 'inclined to . . .', 'full or consisting of . . .'; OE. -ig, earlier -eg, -æg, in early ME. -i, later -ie, -ye, finally -y, with variant -ey in certain positions, as bluey, gluey, nosey (beside nosy). Some adjs. of OE. date have long ceased to show their etymol. relations, as empty, dizzy, giddy, merry, as distinguished from others such as bloody, mighty, speedy. The sp. of fiery (f. fire) is notable. For the addition of -y to produce a more adjectival appearance see chilly, haughty, murky, slippery, wary, and compare hugy, †paly. An exceptional etym. is handy. To be noted is the ð in swarthy and worthy; the coexistence of leafy and leavy, the double cons. in baggy, catty, chummy, leggy, soppy, etc.; the ck in panicky and the like. In the foll. the origin is different, but the suffix is assoc. with this: faulty, hardy, jolly, risky, sturdy, tardy. Recent derivs. (since c.1800) have been very numerous, and have tended to be joc., undignified, or trivial, as balmy, batty, boosy, bossy, cushy, doggy, dotty, hammy, hors(e)y, mousy, oniony, sexy, shirtzy, squiffy. The suffix is added less frequently to verbs with the meaning 'inclined to, liable to', as in choky, drowsy, slippery, sticky (xvi), later blowzy, clingy, quavery, rollicky, runny (e.g. of eggs).

-y<sup>2</sup> i suffix orig. of weak vbs. of the second class, of OE. inf. -ian, with pt. in -ode, pp. in -od = OFris. -ia, OS. -ōian, -ōn, OHG. -ōn (Du., G. -en), Goth. -ōn :- Germ. \-ōjan*. By XIII it was restricted to southern and western areas and remains in mod. dial. (Somerset, Devon, and Dorset) in intr. inf. use.

-y<sup>3</sup> i suffix repr. ultimately, partly through (O)F. -ie, CRom. -ia, L. -ia -ia<sup>1</sup>. It is the vocalic el. of -cy, -ry, and the final el. of many disyll. suffixes, viz. -ACY, -ANCY, -CRACY, -ENCY, -ERY, -GRAPHY, -LATRY, -LOGY, -MANCY, -PATHY, -PHILY, -TOMY. It is exemplified in names of countries such as Brittany, Italy; contrast Arabia (†Araby), Britannia, Syria (†Syrie).

-y<sup>4</sup> i repr., partly through AN. -ie, L. -ium as appended to verbal bases, as in augury, colloquy, perjury, obloquy, remedy, subsidy; not a productive el. in Eng., but perh. supplying the analogy for expiry and inquiry, and a basis for entreaty, f. entreat vb. after treat, treaty. The y of effigy, mercy, navy, pigmy, is different.

-y<sup>6</sup> i also -ie, (in some special cases) -ey, as Charley (beside Charlie), jockey, sawney, slavewy; originating in hypocoristic Sc. formations, several of which have been the basis of surnames, as Christie, Christison, Jamieson, Mathieson, Robison, and forming pet names and familiar diminutives, as well as transf. uses such as applications to implements; for miscellaneous exx. see babby, Betty, bobby, cuddy<sup>2</sup>, daddy, dandy<sup>1</sup>, dicky<sup>1</sup>, jemmy, jockey, joey<sup>2</sup>, johnny, kiddy, namby-pamby, nanny, paddy<sup>2</sup>, Sally Lum, teddy, Tommy. Addition to a curtailed form of a disyllable or polysyllable is exemplified by baccy, cabby, hubby, middy, mighty, toady, tummy, tweeny; exx. of proper names are Bozzy (f. Boswell), Dizzy (f. Disraeli).

Isolated formations are comfy (for comfortable), conchy (for conscientious objector), guty (for guttapercha), hanky (formerly handky, for handkerchief), navvy (for navigator). (For applications of the pl. see -IES.) Cf. -SY.

yabber jæ:bəɹ language of Australian aborigines. XIX. Native yabba.

yacht jət light fast-sailing ship. XVI. - early modDu. jaght(e), now yacht, short for jaghtschip (ship for chasing), f. jaght hunting, chase, f. jagen hunt, chase (see -T<sup>2</sup>); from Du. are also G. jacht, Sw. jakt, Da. jagt, F. yacht jak, Sp. yacte, yate, yac, Pg. hiate, Russ. jakhta. Owing mainly to the presence in the Du. word of the sound χ the Eng. sp. has been various and erratic; the present pronunc. is shown by yott in XVII; a former pronunc. jətʃ or jætʃ is shown by the sp. yatch (XVII-XIX). Hence yacht<sup>ING<sup>1</sup></sup> jə'tɪŋ, ya-CHT<sup>SMAN</sup>, superseding yachtman. XIX.

yale lock jeɪl lək form of lock invented by Linus Yale (1821-68), a locksmith of New England. XIX.

yam jəm (tuberous root of) species of Dioscorea. XVII (earlier in Eng. writings in various alien forms, e.g. inany, nname, igname) - Pg. inhame or Sp. †igñame (mod. ñame), whence F. igname; ult. source unkn.

yamen, -un jə'mən office of a Chinese mandarin. XIX. Chinese, f. ya general's tent or pavilion, official residence + mun gate.

yank jæŋk (dial., U.S.) pull suddenly and vigorously; also sb. XIX. Of unkn. origin.

Yank jæŋk short for YANKEE. XVIII.

Yankee jæ'ŋki native of New England, (hence of the U.S.A.). XVIII. None of the proposed etyms. is convincing; most plausibly on formal grounds, spec. application of Yankee, Yank(e)y (XVII-XVIII) as a surname or nickname, and may be based on Du. Jan John and intended as a dim. form (= Janje). ☞ Yanky was formerly the name of a craft of Du. build.
